CHICAGO WINS THIRD OF SERIES WITH SIX HIT OUT

Kerr Holds Cincinnati to Only Three Hits and No Runs; Sox Score Three

By Henry L. Farrell
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Comiskey Park, Chicago, Oct. 3.—Hats off to "Little Dickie" Kerr.

The midget pitcher of the Comiskey crew did today what Gleason's highly touted aces failed to accomplish and turned in a shutout victory for the white hose in the third game of the world series, 3 to 0.

Dickie is the smallest pitcher in the big leagues, but he is the biggest thing the Reds have encountered in many baseball games.

Hardly larger than the bat he swings, this mite of a southpaw not only stopped the stamped but blanked the Moran outfit in spite of its vaunted work and held the Redland wrecking crew to three lonely singles distributed in as many innings.

After the fifth inning not a Red reached first base and Kerr had them swinging wildly with his fast breaking curves or popping up weakly when they swung at the slow ones he mixed in.

Kerr displayed the courage of a veteran against the mighty maulers who broke the hearts of Cicotte and Williams and in spite of the fact that it was his maiden appearance in the big baseball classic he pitched one of the best games in world series history.

It was vastly different crew of Sox that turned in a victory today. The desperate situation which had their backs to the wall, combined with the plaudits of the home town fans and the super pitching of Kerr made them a most dangerous crew.

First Innings.—Cincinnati—Rath up. Rath bunted down the third base line and had the ball been fair he would have been safe. Rath out, Risberg to Gandil. Daubert up. Daubert filed to Flesch in short Ted and Will McDonald, brothers of the women, also are charged with murder and are sought by southern police.

The McDonalds are children of the late Judge McDonald, of Whitman county.

Robbery is believed to have been the motive of the murder. McNutt had more than $1000 on him when he disappeared.

CITY WELCOMES SHRINERS; 200 MAKE UP PARTY

It was Shriners' day in Salem Friday. The streets were thrown open to them, and the city's welcome was cordial.

With the arrival of 200 shriners from Portland Friday morning, who are bound to Marshfield to take in a new class of members, the party, with six Salem Shriners, after parading down Commercial and State streets at noon, left on the southbound train. They will stop an hour at Albany, at Corvallis, and will receive a big reception at Eugene army tonight.

The party is due to arrive at Marshfield at 3:30 a. m. Saturday, and will be entertained at Shore Acres, the palatial home of L. J. Simpson. In the afternoon the Shriners will attend a clam bake in their honor, at the sea shore. Following this the ceremony initiating Marshfield candidates into the Al Kader Shrine will be held. The party will then return to Salem, arriving at 10 a. m. Sunday.

The Salem men to go with the party were: Hal D. Patton, O. J. Schei, J. A. Allison, Z. J. Riggs, C. E. Wilson, Lee I. Gilbert and Henry Domes of Gevaia.

SUGAR SHORT ON MARKET AND NO RELIEF IN SIGHT

That Salem will be without sugar entirely in about two weeks, or just what time the supply now on hand in local dealers' warehouses, was the apparent outcome of the shortage Friday.

According to word received by G. E. Schumann, 206 North 14th street, local representative of Wadham & Kerr of Portland strikes in the factories of the Western Sugar Refining Co., and on the water front in San Francisco, is responsible for the lack of sugar.

The bulletin received by Mr. Schumann states that all the "raws" now on the coast for the manufacture of sugar are tied up on boats at the piers in San Francisco, where sevedores refuse to handle it. Until the strike is ended no more sugar will be manufactured for coast use, the bulletin said.

Although it would seem that this situation would cause a rise in prices here, it is said that dealers, while limiting their sales, will not make any raise in price.

WILD WELCOME GIVEN ALBERT IN NEW YORK

New York, Oct. 3.—The official welcome of King Albert Queen Elizabeth and Prince Leopold to this city at noon today, although deferred until 24 hours after their arrival from Belgium, surpassed in enthusiasm the informal greeting they received yesterday.

Tens of thousands were massed at the Battery and in the vicinity when the royal party arrived there on Rodman Wanamaker's yacht, Norma, which they had boarded in the North river immediately after leaving their hotel.

Other thousands lined lower Broadway, which the party and their escort traversed in motors to the city hall. This was the luncheon hour for the financial district workers and they preferred giving voice to their admiration of Albert of the Belgians and his party to undertaking the more prosaic task of eating.

CONDITION OF WILSON TODAY IS UNCHANGED

Consulting Experts Agree With Grayson's Nervous Breakdown Diagnosis.

EXECUTIVE CONFINED TO BED AND DOING NO WORK

Temperature Is Normal And General Physical Condition Promising.

Washington, Oct. 3.—(United Press.)—At 12:15 p. m., Dr. Cary T. Grayson issued the following statement:

"The president's condition is unchanged."

Dr. Grayson today reiterated his statement that the president is exhausted physically and mentally and that only complete rest can restore him to good health.

Each of the doctors called into consultation have agreed with him in diagnosing the case as one of nervous exhaustion and have likewise agreed on the treatment, it was stated.

Dr. Grayson said the calling in of specialists was to give him the aid and assurance to which he believes the president and the country are entitled. He will keep in touch with them and they will call at the White House with him twice daily.

Dr. Francis X. Dercum, Philadelphia neurologist, will return to Washington from time to time as he is needed. Dr. Grayson conferred with him over the telephone this morning.

Dr. Grayson emphasized that a complete break has not come, but said that he feels he is "shaking on this ice" and wants to take all precautions possible, in view of the president's age and the heavy strain he has undergone in recent months.

While the president is confined to his bed and not permitted to do any work, he retains an active interest in affairs and converses freely with those about him. Physical symptoms remain favorable, according to Grayson. The president's temperature is normal and other conditions are regarded as good, although he is greatly weakened.

He takes nourishment, although his appetite is not good.

Dr. Grayson set at rest rumors that there might be an operation. Such a step is not contemplated, he said. No X-ray has been used, he reported.

Attending the president are a trained nurse and Mrs. Wilson, who remains with him constantly and personally ministers to him as much as she can.

Secretary Tumulty said today no matter, however important it may be considered, will be brought to the attention of the president. Yesterday he was told of the vote on the Fall amendments and the ratification of the peace treaty by the French chamber of deputies.

W. G. McAdoo, the president's son-in-law and former secretary of the treasury, is at the White House. Mrs. McAdoo will arrive this afternoon. Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, the president's daughter, is also on the way to Washington. Miss Margaret Wilson has been at the White House since the president returned from his tour.

QUEEN APPROVES SUFFRAGE

New York, Oct. 3.—In an interview today, Queen Elizabeth of Belgium declared she fully approved of woman suffrage.

"Woman suffrage is a good thing. It is the right thing," she said.

Banker Promises Support

Although declining to preside at the proposed mass meeting in the interest of the housing situation next week, A. N. Bush, president of the Ladd & Bush bank, had this to say regarding the matter, Thursday:

"I am in full sympathy with the campaign for more houses in Salem; and recognize the fact that they must be built if this city is to keep pace with progress. This bank and myself, will aid in a conservative way any legitimate proposition."

Dark Stain Upon Slain Aviators Shirt Single Clue to Cause of Death

Nogales, Ariz., Oct. 3.—A spot apparently of blood, on the shirt of one of the two lost army aviators whose bodies were found September 21 at Barrio de Los Angeles, Lower California, by Joseph Allen Richards of Chicago, was the only possible indication of how the aviators died, Richards declared today.

A report that the airplane is lying on a mesa about 15 miles from where the aviators were found, has not been verified. The two aviators, Lieutenants Frederick B. Waterhouse of Weiser, Idaho, and Cecil J. Connelly of San Diego, had been missing since August 20 when they left San Diego on a patrol flight over the Mexican border.

Richards in a statement to the United Press today told of finding the bodies when he went ashore from the steamer, Navari, to replenish the vessel's water supply while en route to Guaymas.

About 20 feet back from the high water mark I saw the skull of a man sticking out of the ground, he said.

"Further search revealed two bodies buried in about twelve inches of sand. On the smaller man I found the bar of a lieutenant's wings of the aviating corps and leather leggings marked 'Hannan Brothers, New York.' On the larger man I found gold cuff buttons marked with the letter 'A,' eagle wings and propeller bar insignia. Both bodies were whipsword pants with covers over the uniforms. I dug deeper graves and buried the bodies.

"Proceeding with my ship to Santa Rosalia I reported to the captain of the American steamer Providencia and Jim Butler, gave them written statements and showed the relics I had taken. The captain of the Providencia carried the story to the American consul at Guaymas and an hour later I was arrested by the commander of the port of Santa Rosalia who investigated and released me with a police guard.

"About seven o'clock the same evening a paper was brought to me to sign, which I refused to do. I was searched, the relics were taken away from me and an argument started among the Mexican officials as to whether they should jail me for robbery of bodies. I was released when I prevailed upon the mayor to intercede. I went to Guaymas and from there the American consul accompanied me to the border."

Taxes Delinquent After Saturday Night; Pay Up

Have you paid your taxes? Better "get a move on" then, because the tax collector closes his doors at 5 o'clock Saturday evening. Then delinquent taxes are assessed a penalty of 1 per cent until November 5, when an additional penalty of 5 per cent is added.

It was reported at tax collecting headquarters in the court house, Thursday that many persons, knowing that the time in which to pay and evade the penalty was drawing shorter, were hurrying in to "square up" with the county.

COUNTY LIBRARY WILL HAVE TO WAIT, SAYS COUNTY JUDGE BUSHEY

Contrary to the report in a morning newspaper that County Judge Bushey was opposed to a county library, and that he scented the idea because "95 percent of the books should never have been published," Judge Bushey rather encouraged the plan, and only deferred action because of the urgency just now of other matters.

"We will need every cent we can get to apply on a road fund," Judge Bushey said Friday, "and it is for that reason primarily, that the county court remonstrated. It is true that I said that a number of books are unfit to read, but there can be no doubt about the advisability of a central place where citizens can refer to books of actual benefit. But, for the time being, the city library will have to do, and the books kept in many of our Salem lodges and organizations will have to be used."

When Judge Bushey was confronted Thursday by State Librarian Cornelia Marvin, who strongly urges the county library, he suggested that the matter be placed before the people through the ballot at the next election. No definite action was taken by the county court, and the matter was temporarily shelved.

Woodburn, Or., Oct. 3.—Damage estimated at more than $400 was the result of a fire that broke out at 11:10 a. m. Thursday in the third story of the Masonic temple, and which was subdued with difficulty by work of volunteer fire fighters.

DELEGATES FOR BIG CONVENTION ELECTED TODAY

Methodists Select Representative To Meeting At Des Moines.

DR. R. N. AVISON AMONG PASTORS TO BE CHOSEN

Bishop Hughes Says Many Ministers Throw Away Own Salvation.

The election of delegates from Oregon to the national conference in Des Moines next May of the Methodist Episcopal church, was completed at the Friday morning session of the 67th session of the Oregon annual conference of the Methodist Episcopal church. The election progressed without delay, and support to the candidates named was apparently unanimous.

The delegates selected to represent the Oregon district at the big conference are:

Rev. T. B. Ford, district superintendent of the Salem district; Rev. William W. Youngson, district superintendent of the Portland district; Richard N. Avison, D. D., pastor of the First church of Salem; Rev. D. H. Leech, pastor of the Eugene church; and the alternate delegates are: Rev. Joshua Stanfield, of the First church of Portland, and Clarence True Wilson, D. D., secretary of the board of temperance, prohibition and morals, Washington, D. C.

The selection of Dr. Avison of the Methodist Episcopal church of Salem confers a notable honor upon the city. His election was accomplished without dissent, and the general attitude of the delegates to the conference here was one of pleasure with the success of the elections.

During the morning session, held at the Methodist Episcopal church, State and Church streets, Bishop Matthew S. Hughes, who is presiding at the conference, delivered a message on "Reflex Influence of Evangelism."

He pointed out that many preachers, bound up in their work, and religious study of the "principles of the church, lose their own salvation. This, he declared, disqualifies them to conduct the duties of the church as they should be. In explanation of this he cited the case of John Callahan, noted criminal of Minneapolis. He told how Callahan, ordered out of Minneapolis because of the crimes he committed there, went to New York and succeeded Samuel Hadly, famous organizer of the Bowery Mission in New York. Callahan, having thus found Christianity, returned to the city from which he was banished, welcomed by the police judge, mayor and the best of citizens.

Much of the morning was devoted to regular business. Many students in the ministerial course, were passed on another year.

At the afternoon session four preachers and four laymen were elected to attend the Des Moines convention. The names of those held highest in favor could not be learned.

Between three and five o'clock a reception was tendered to the wives of visiting ministers and ladies visiting the conference by the Lucella Kimball club in the Kimball school of theology.

At 7:30 a joint centenary meeting will be held with Dr. A. L. Haworth presiding. James E. Crowder, D. D. will address the conference on "Methodism World Program."

DR. W. S. MOTT IS DEAD; RESIDENT OF CITY 30 YEARS

Dr. W. S. Mott, 64 years old, for 30 years an active physician in Salem, died at the family residence, 660 North Commercial street, at 2:30 a. m. Friday.

Heart disease was given as the cause. The end came unexpectedly. Dr. Mott was working at his office in the Banc of Commerce building until Wednesday, when, not feeling well, he went to bed.

His widow, Mrs. Wyletta Mott, and son, Dr. William B. Mott, of Portland, and wife, were at his bedside at the time of his death. Dr. William Mott, who learned of his father's illness, came to Salem Thursday, and was administering treatment when the end came.

Dr. Mott was born in McGee, Penn., April 17, 1855, and came to Salem 30 years ago last July. Since his arrival here he has been actively interested in matters for the betterment of Salem. Before coming here, he practiced at medicine in McGee six years.

He was a Mason, Forester, Artisan, Royal Neighbor, a member of the Eastern Star and of the Modern Woodmen. At various times he was connected with other fraternal movements, and at all times during his active life here he strived for the advancement and growth of this city.

Word of their father's death was sent Friday to James W. Mott, a lawyer of Astoria, and Captain L. H. Mott, of Fort Ward, the other two sons who survive in Salem. They are expected to arrive in Salem sometime Friday night. Funeral arrangements will not be made until their arrival.

Dr. Mott, after establishing for himself an enviable name in the medical world, married Miss Wyletta Bunn, daughter of James Bunn, Altoona, Penn. They then came west, stopping at Salem where they have resided since.

The body is at Rigdon's undertaking parlors.

DRYGOODS FIRM BUYS OWN HOME PRICE $10,000

A $10,000 real estate deal, whereby the dry goods firm of Rostin & Greenbaum acquires title to the building at 240-46 North Commercial street in which its store is located, was completed this morning.

The sale was made by George Watson, who purchased the property from the W. F. Boothby estate two years ago. Mr. Boothby constructed the building 25 years ago.

The Rostin & Greenbaum firm opened their store here 15 years ago.

Build Now! Prices for Lumber Cannot Drop Opinion of Lumbermen

It being evident that many persons in Salem are delaying plans for building homes on many of the city's vacant lots because of the belief that prices of building materials will drop with the winter and spring, it seems that they are in line for a keen disappointment.

That there is no logical reason why the price of lumber will drop here this winter, or even as late as next spring, is the opinion of Superintendent Meyers, of the Charles E. Spalding Logging company's plant here.

"With the law of price governing being the supply and demand for products, and with the demand for lumber in all parts of the country increasing, there is little chance that the price of lumber will drop," Meyers said Friday. "So long as labor also demands more, it is veritable folly to believe that a price reduction can come."

"It seems to me—not that we wish to sell them lumber—that the people who plan to build had better do it now when prices are comparatively low. For, believe, they will rise rather than fall now," he added.

Meyers said that he felt it an injustice to have the firm accused of profiteering, when, in reality, it is selling lumber in Salem at a price below its wholesale price. He said that certain grades of lumber which the company sells here for $54, sells elsewhere wholesale at $75.

"Surely that can't be called profiteering," he said.

With business men thoroughly aroused to the needs of the hour here it is expected that some fruitful action will be taken in the housing matter without delay.

At the mass meeting scheduled for next week, at which the housing situation will be discussed in all phases, C. W. Niemeyer, prominent business man, will expound the principals of the "Own Your Own Home" movement. Efforts are now being made in the city to interest financiers in this plan, and it is believed that as a result of the mass meeting, much support will be gained.

In all sections this plan is being tested with more or less success. All styles of application are not the same, and should the "Own Your Own Home" plan be adopted in Salem, it is probable that an original course of procedure will be tried. Mr. Niemeyer, who has made an exhaustive study of the movements, believes that a plan, which, briefly, is as follows will be a long step toward solving the housing problem here:

A number of business men form a corporation, to be governed by federal outlines. This corporation assumes liabilities on the citizen's property, advances money to erect a home; and grants more than the common length of time in which to pay. The interest is the lowest, and is governed by a sliding scale—the home builder who is quick to pay receiving a lower rate of interest.

DEATH TOLL IN ARKANSAS RACE RIOT TOTALS 22

Helena, Ark., Oct. 3.—The death toll in two days of race war at Elaine, Ark., near here, today stood at twenty-two. Five were whites and the remainder negroes.

One of the dead whites is a soldier from Camp Pike. He was killed when negroes fired on him from ambush.

Quiet prevailed early today with Camp Pike soldiers patrolling the streets of Elaine. Five hundred soldiers are on guard here and in Elaine, augmented by 1000 former soldiers, deputy sheriffs and armed guards.

O. C. Bratton, former assistant postmaster at Little Rock, Ark., is under arrest here, charged with first degree murder. He is accused of being an instigator of the riots. Bratton declares he was in Elaine on legal business and had no connection with the uprising.
